Dental Program Ambitious

An ambitious dental health program for the public schools will be implemented in Andover this coming year.

Dr. Stephen Halem, appearing before the school committee Tuesday night, told of the program, studied and proposed by local dentists and designed to produce an instructional, rather than an observation program.

Rather than the mere observance of potential dental problems which dental hygienists now accomplish, the new program will concentrate on imparting knowledge and value of dental care at an early age.

Dr. Halem has been a part of a study group requested by the school committee to design a dental hygiene program for the schools.

The new proposal initially calls for students to have parents sign cards indicating if the child is currently receiving dental care from a family dentist.

For those who do not have regular dental care, according to the cards returned, they will be seen by the school's dental hygienist.

This is expected to curtail the current work load being handled by the dental hygienists.

The most important part of the new program will be guided by an oral advisory board, composed of three local dentists who will serve on an annual basis.

The heaviest part of the program will be aimed at the fourth grade level.

Lectures and laboratories will be conducted to impress upon the youngsters the value of good dental care as it relates to the overall general health.

The youngsters, in laboratory work will be making self examination and receive instruction on proper brushing and care of teeth as well as learn how diseases come about through improper care.

Dr. Halem told the committee that the local dentists planning the program will be giving considerable time to the project to

A Committee Will Examine The Schools

A committee of antagonists, lovers and other strangers of Andover's school system will huddle in a climate of learning atmosphere during the coming year to examine the structure or lack thereof of Andover's public schools.

Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert, superintendent of schools, apparently aspiring to give proponents of all forms of modern education a shot at determining what is best for Andover proposed appointment of a composite committee, which was accepted by the school committee Tuesday night.

The committee will include members of the school system, some representatives of the current climate for learning committee, proponents of the Free school concept, or alternative education committee, and people from the community in general.

The committee design is aimed at giving proponents of all facets of education a voice and to work within the school system toward evolving a school system guideline applicable to Andover, possibly in September, 1973.

One of the major problems in his presentation to the school committee Tuesday night was resolving a fear that two groups were to study the school system, one group referred to at times by representatives of the Free school concept as antagonistic.

It was only after an hour of questioning the committee composition that it was determined by other than the school committee, which seemed to understand the proposal, that everyone was going to be working together.

In his presentation, Dr. Seifert

Town Water Won't Be In Bad Taste

New residents having sampled Lawrence's drinking water and gulped and older residents who just gulp at the thought of consuming Merrimack River water continue to look apprehensively toward the day when the new treatment plant at Haggetts pond will be supplying Andover's water needs.

Allaying the fears of new and old residents alike, Public Works Director Robert McQuade assured that Andover water will not bear any resemblance to the taste problems experienced in the city.

The new treatment plant will be a modern processing operation, aimed at purifying the water taken from the Merrimack and producing a clean, palatable product for the consumers.

McQuade points out that the Lawrence treatment facilities are old and are currently in the process of being updated. The city facility was one of the first to be built to process river water and was looked upon as a model for other communities many years ago.

Now, its methods are outdated, and treatment operations have been refined, the director notes.

Andover's treatment plant will take water from the Merrimack and will be highly chlorinated initially.

But before the water is placed in Haggetts pond, the town's main reservoir for storage, it will go through an extensive filtering

The Department of Labor administers programs and monitors compliance with legislation to benefit the American worker in the areas of manpower, occupational safety and health, labor-management relations, international labor, employment standards and labor statistics. The Department also provides a complete range of publications on its work in these areas.

(A TOWNSMAN News Feature)

Some weeks ago, as Leslie Hillyard was having his evening pint in the village local of Longitichington, in Warwickshire, he learned that an American was visiting some relatives there.

Longitichington is off the beaten path, one of those picture postcard English villages nestled around the parish church. It is situated near Coventry, not far from the road to Rugby.

Few American tourists would be expected to find the village, and so Leslie Hillyard sought out the visitor to show him a treasure he has guarded jealously for 28 years, since the day a Yankee detachment liberated him from a prisoner of war camp in Magdeburg, Germany, a few months after Christmas, in 1945.

Cardboard Box Has Meaning

James Tsepas

The visitor was James Tsepas of 2 McKenney Circle, chef at the Andover Inn. The treasure was a simple cardboard box, bearing the legend, "American Red Cross."

"It's just a piece of cardboard, but it means so much to me," Leslie Hillyard told the American visitor. And then he explained.

Hillyard was flight engineer on a Stirling bomber, attached to Squadron 190, Royal Air Force, which took off Sept. 21, 1943, on a special mission over the Low Countries. The rest of the crew was Canadian.

The mission was to drop supplies to British spies, male and female, who had parachuted onto the continent from earlier flights. On the turn for home, across the English Channel, the craft was shot down by anti-aircraft fire, exploding in mid-air. By a miracle, Hillyard and one other crew member, parachuted safely, but were taken prisoners.

Fifteen months later, just before Christmas, 1944, with his spirits at the lowest ebb, Hillyard received an American Red Cross gift box.

"It lifted my hopes and gave me a whole new outlook on life," Hillyard told Tsepas. And when the food and gifts inside had been consumed, he still clung to the cardboard container.

The following spring, when liberating American troops released the prisoners, the box went along with Hillyard. And while other homebound British troops and former P.O.W.'s were tossing valuable gear overboard from the ship bearing them from the war zone, Hillyard guarded his Red Cross box as if it contained the crown jewels.

Tsepas said he could appreciate Hillyard's feelings, even though his own wartime experiences were less harrowing. In fact, Tsepas's war service included meeting his future wife, an English girl. That was while he was serving with the United States Navy attached to a naval base on the Scottish coast. They were married there in Scotland.

New Dorm At Academy Bridged Ecology Gap

Eldredge Stewart House, Phillips Academy's newest dormitory, is expected to be ready for occupancy with the opening of the fall term next month. It will house 40 students and two faculty families.

Named for an alumnus whose benefaction made possible the building of the $700,000 facility, Stewart House symbolizes the start of an awakening interest in the ecological aspects of Rabbit Pond on the P.A. campus.

The dormitory was designed by Pietro Belluschi and Jung Brannen Associates of Boston. The contractor is C. and L. Construction Company of Greenland, N.H.

A site close to Rabbit Pond was the first choice for a location. A bridge was to be built across the tiny pond as a means of access.

Immediately, faculty and students expressed protest, citing environmental hazards and also pointing out that the site was close to Missionary Rock, where students of the Andover Theological School once gathered to pray and to discuss the possibilities of foreign missions.

After mass meetings, petitioning and other vigorous but reasoned argument, the Phillips administration backed down, and chose the present site, off Highland road.

During construction of the dormitory, faculty wives and townspeople, aroused to the possibilities of preserving the ecological integrity of the pond, raised $6,200 to have it dredged of silt and sand.

Stewart House is adjacent to Nathan Hale and Stearns, the school's newest dormitories, all in the general area of Rabbit Pond.

The two faculty families will have four-bedroom apartments each, while the students will be housed in double and triple rooms.

Barbeque Set For Saturday

A "Buckaroo Barbeque" will be held Aug. 26 for Atty. Paul J. Sheehy, Democratic candidate for the Fifth Congressional District.

The event will take place on the grounds of the Christian Formation Center, River Road from noon to sundown.

Various activities and entertainment for children and adults will be provided throughout the day, including games, pony rides, races, rodeo activities, trick dog acts, clowns, etc. -- plus numerous prizes.

Spit-roasted sides of beef, suckling pig, free beverages and all the trimmings will be served.

being obtained relative to the portable buildings.

ACT Begins New Season

The Andover Community Theater (ACT) will be opening its first full season of activities with a general meeting on Wednesday, Sept. 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the Faculty Room at West Elementary School on Beacon St.

ACT is a fledgling amateur theatre group that sprung up last January in the hope of attracting both the experienced and inexperienced people of the community who are interested in community theatre activities. The success of their first production last spring has spurred this small group into planning a full season of three shows for the coming year. Since its aims are high, the group is hoping to attract a number of new people to join its ranks — from directors to stage crews to actors to those who enjoy handling business details. A lot of people are needed to stage community theatre productions, and ACT is short-handed in many areas.

The meeting on Sept. 6 is the first one planned by the new board of directors elected last May. They've been meeting through the summer in an effort to provide a solid foundation upon which the membership can build this next season. Items to be covered at the meeting range from discussions and decisions to be made on this season's first production, "Barefoot in the Park," to the choosing of a mystery for the second production.

The highlight of the meeting will be the presentation of a one-act comedy, "A Mad Breakfast." It is the result of a summer workshop on Acting conducted by Pat Prentice. This hilarious farce takes place at the breakfast table of a rooming house — or is it an insane asylum? The roomers believe one thing and a visitor believes... well, why not make your own "visit" and see! The cast includes some members from last season as well as a few people who joined the group this summer.

So, even those who aren't sure if they are interested in community theatre should plan to attend the meeting and see what it's all about. Coffee will be served.

Building A Better CO-OP — No.9

New CO-OP "Home" Bakery

There's real excitement at the CO-OP this week.

Exclusive in this area is a new CO-OP "home" bakery consisting of five automatic ovens right on the premises.

What's cooking? Under the direction of Mrs. William (Jackie) Douty, we are baking bread and rolls, doughnuts, Danish pastry, cookies and layer cakes. Hot, oven-fresh bread will be ready by the time we open our store at eight o'clock in the morning.

We will do our own decorating, we will apply our own icings and fillings right before your eyes.

During the opening week of this new enterprise you may taste any product we bake. A table will be set up for easy sampling by our shoppers.

In addition to the only modern "home" bakery for all to see, the goodies coming out of our ovens will sell at prices that will delightfully surprise you.

This latest innovation in our comprehensive renewal program will help to make Andover's consumer-owned CO-OP the place where discerning consumers prefer to get together.

SUPPLIER OF SCHOOL NEEDS FOR 18 YEARS

GETTING ACQUAINTED. Carole Barrett of Andover gets acquainted with one of her young students at the Rosebud Indian Reservation in South Dakota, where she will begin teaching.

To Teach At Indian Mission

This weekend, when most people are just beginning to think about the end of the vacation season, Carole Anne Barrett of Andover will be preparing lessons for the opening of classes at an Indian mission in South Dakota, next Monday.

Carole Anne, a graduate of Andover High School in 1965, and a college English and education major, began teaching at the Rosebud Reservation last New Year's Day. Her first assignment was in kindergarten, although she had had college experience. This fall, she will be teaching at the high school level -- for $50 a month and board.

Miss Barrett was graduated from Seton Hill College, in Pennsylvania, 1969, then went to St. Louis University on a teaching fellowship in English where she received her master's degree. Last summer, she worked in the inner city with young blacks, tutoring them as they prepared to enter the university in the Missouri city.

While there, a friend asked her if she would be interested in assisting in Indian country. She readily replied that she would. The opening came at the reservation occupied by the Rosebud Sioux Tribe.

The reservation is served by the St. Francis Mission, a Jesuit outpost, situated 150 miles from Pierre, the capital of South Dakota, and almost equally distant from the other reasonably large municipality, Rapid City.

The mission and the reservation are about eight miles apart, and while cars are sometimes available, Miss Barrett commented, "but we walked a lot."

In addition to her teaching duties, Miss Barrett also served as prefect in one of the dormitories on the reservation. Some of the children board at the school since most of them come from large families and living conditions at home are not conducive to study.

"What it actually amounted to, was baby sitting," said Carole Anne, "with youngsters ranging from 4 to 20 years."

But with the help of Indian aides and healthy reinforcement -- telling a child when he did something well, rather than scold him for something wrong -- the school situation was productive.

"There is rank poverty, a life style of vastly different concepts from what we know here, and time is never a matter of priority of getting things done in a hurry out there away from the bustle of the east," Carole Anne said, "but, the air is so clean."

Besides the amenities, there also was a problem of language. The young Indian children speak the Lakota tongue at home, but Miss Barrett found they quickly adjusted to English. They have such names as Carol Black Spotted Horse and Andrew Left Hand Bull.

The young teacher has had about two weeks at home with her parents, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Gilbert A. Barrett, 15 Pine Crest Road, a comfortable ranch home with an inviting swimming pool in the patio. Earlier in the summer, she took further education courses at Marquette University, Milwaukee.

But Carole Anne Barrett has no qualms about turning her back on all that. She will be reaching South Dakota in time for the tribal fairs, when the Indian people will bring in their buckskin and bead homcrafts, there will be dancing and there will be youngsters waiting her return.

"There is no culture shock, at either end of the journey," she said.

Sharks can detect the vibrations of the beat of a fish fin from 300 yards, and one part of blood in ten million to 100 million parts of water. No sound has ever been recorded from a shark, the Massachusetts Audubon Society tells us.

A Municipal Program Like A Boiled Dinner

By Gary C. Ralph

At a not too long ago Recreation Commission meeting in the town of my former employment, a commission member during a heated discussion asked in anger, "Well, what in the devil is Recreation -- we have been discussing it for a year and I still can't define it!" That question and statement brought me to a screeching halt. I could recite at least three "professional philosophies" but all unfortunately full of ambiguous terms. I remember at the time stumbling through some explanation. With respect to all the very worthy professional recreators before me who tried so hard to define that nebulous term recreation, I now believe we should abolish the word. Then, develop a word that is reflective of the broad spectrum of leisure opportunities that should be standard fare in every community. I am afraid, due to the composition of some recreation programs offered by public recreation departments with large municipal budgets, the word recreation brings to mind the vision of kids in swings, ball diamonds, and a gym-shoe-clad, T-shirted director with a whistle in his mouth. I don't believe any recreation department should be allowed by the public to represent that picture. I would like to envision in Andover that with cooperative planning and foresight, we will become a department that offers a good Recreation and Cultural Arts program.

I am not deriding the physical activities offered by a recreation department. These activities are an essential ingredient of any well-balanced recreation program.

But that aspect of the program is just that - a part of the total or simply, one necessary ingredient. Maybe I can make my idea of the modern recreation department using the following analogy: the making of a recreation program to the making of a fine New England Boiled Dinner. There are essential ingredients for both and to delete any particular portion is to only detract from the completed entity. Each of us has to introduce the base, be it your physical activities or the cooking of the corned beef. Once we have established a good base, the main ingredients can be added. In the case of the recreation program, this means adding programs and activities which will encompass all age groups and thus, increasing the desirability of programs. Our dinner comparison: the adding of the cabbage, potatoes, carrots, turnips and onions. Now for that third and final step which perhaps creates the most desirable products.

As for the recreation program, I am referring to the addition of the cultural arts or enrichment activities. This is the step which reaches out and encompasses a majority of the general public. We have with this addition, gently touched many people and, I believe, have added to their pleasurable usage of their leisure time. In our New England Boiled Dinner, each of us is adding that spice or something special to make it the crowd pleaser we would like it to be. And it will be, as I hope the today concept of recreation for Andover in the near future.

Mosher Leads Club In Batting

By Rick Harrison

Dave Mosher, Steve Fabiani, Keith Verrette and Glenn Verrette chalked up the top batting and pitching records for the Andover Babe Ruth baseball team during the recently-completed 1972 season.

The year ended on a discordant note earlier this week as a rusty Andover club, out of action for almost two weeks, was swept out of the playoffs by Tower Hill.

Tower Hill captured two straight games by big scores, and thus moved into the playoff finals against the North Andover-Methuen semifinal survivor.

Mosher paced the Andover club in batting with a solid .390 average, just missing a chance to finish at the .400 mark when he went hitless in the last game of the regular season.

Mosher hit safely in 13 of the 21 games, and he also paced the team in total hits (23), runs scored (16) and triples (2). Dave was tied for the lead in homeruns with one, and he placed third in RBIs with nine.

Fabiani posted the second best batting mark with a .291 average. Steve hit safely in 11 of the 21 games, and at one stretch owned a four-game hitting streak.

Steve was runner-up in runs scored (13), doubles (2), walks (10) and tied for third in hits with 16.

Keith Verrette batted a solid .282, and 14-year-old brother Glenn Verrette stroked the ball at a .258 clip.

Keith was tops in doubles (3) and stolen bases (13), while tying for the team lead in homeruns (1) and RBIs (11). He also led in total at bats (74) and official at bats (71). His 20 hits were second only to Mosher, and Keith tied for third in runs scored with 12.

Keith hit safely in 15 of the 21 games, and had the longest hitting streak on the club with seven straight games at the close of the regular season.

Glenn was second in stolen bases (12) and tied for third in hits (16) and runs scored (12). The lefthander hit safely in 14 of 21 games, and had a five-game batting skein in progress at the close of the regular season.

Trailing Keith Verrette in total at bats were Jeff Winters (72), Mosher (71), Glenn Verrette (69), Fabiani (67) and Steve Galvin (61).

Behind Keith Verrette in official at bats came Winters (64), Glenn Verrette (62), Mosher (59) and Fabiani (55).

Joining the top four players with more than 10 hits was Winters, who collected 12 safeties and also tied for the RBI lead with 11.

The team belted 12 doubles, three each by Winters and Keith Verrette, two by Mosher and Steve Fabiani and one apiece from Glenn Verrette and Galvin.

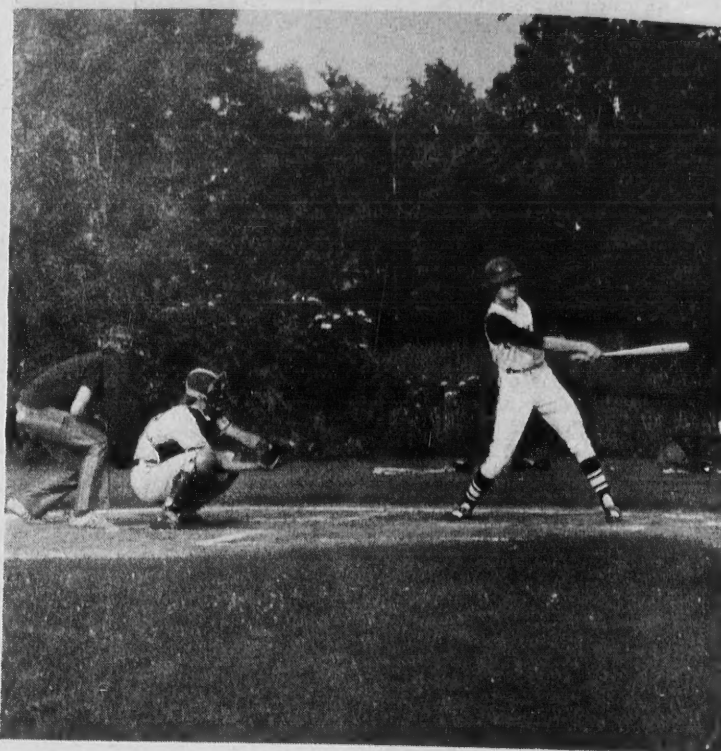

Trailing the top three in RBIs were Glenn Verrette (6) and Joe Pasquale (5).

The club swiped 65 bases, sparked by the Verrettes who combined for 25 steals. Mosher had 10, Fabiani 9, Galvin 7 and Winters 6.

Thirteen-year-old Thom Lawler drew the most walks with 12, followed by Fabiani (10), Mosher (9), Glenn Verrette (7), Galvin (7), Winters (6) and Dave Rindone (6).

Keith Verrette and Winters played 146 innings apiece, while Mosher saw action in 145, Glenn Verrette 140, Fabiani 140, Paul McIntyre 126 and Galvin 122.

Pitching - Highlighting the season were no-hitters by Keith Ver-

DAVE MOSHER (right) of Andover Babe Ruth team lashes a single and shows form that earned him hefty .390 batting average for the 1972 season. Mosher led the club in several other offensive departments, and also posted 5-2 pitching record with a no-hitter, two shutouts and a dazzling 0.85 E.R.A. Action here is against league champ North Andover during 2-1 loss.

rette and Dave Mosher, both at the expense of South Lawrence West.

Both pitching gems were shutouts, and in both cases SLW didn't hit a ball out of the infield.

Mosher led the Andover hurling corps with a 5-2 record, dropping a pair of tight decisions to North Andover and Tower Hill by 4-1 and 3-2 scores respectively.

In 41 innings Dave allowed just 13 hits and five earned runs for a miniscule 0.85 E.R.A. He walked 26 and struck out 29, starting six games and completing five. He also relieved once.

Steve Fabiani was the club workhorse, duplicating his 4-3 record of last year. Fab also experienced some tough luck, dropping back-to-back heartbreakers 2-1 and 1-0 to North Andover and Methuen.

Steve started seven games and completed them all. In 50 frames he allowed 39 hits and nine earned runs for a 1.26 E.R.A. He walked 23 and averaged one strikeout per inning by fanning 50 batters. Fabiani also provided an exciting moment against North Lawrence. Leading 1-0 entering the seventh inning, Steve loaded the bases with none out and went to 3-0 on the next batter. He came back to whiff that man and retire the next two hitters to preserve the victory.

Glenn Verrette posted a 2-1 mark to boost his two-year slate to 5-2. Glenn started three games and finished two, surrendering 16 hits and three earned runs in 20 innings for a 1.05 E.R.A.

The young lefthander walked 12 and fanned 17, and at one stretch during a 9-0 romp over Prospect Hill Glenn struck out eight consecutive batters.

Keith Verrette started four games, completed two and made one relief appearance. In 25 frames he allowed 10 hits and seven earned runs for a 1.96 E.R.A. He walked 15 and whiffed 19.

Steve Galvin was 1-0 again this season to boost his two-year ledger to a perfect 2-0. Galvin started one game and relieved twice.

In eight innings he gave up eight hits and one earned run for a 0.88 E.R.A. He walked seven and fanned four.

The team wound up with 16 complete games in 21 starts. The five pitchers surrendered only 86 hits in 147 innings, and the overall E.R.A. of the staff was a sparkling 1.14.

Andover hurlers chalked up six shutouts, two each by Mosher and Fabiani and one apiece from Glenn and Keith Verrette. The team finished strongly with four shutouts in its last five regular-season games. The locals were blanked only once themselves, 1-0 by Methuen.

Andover outscored its opponents, 80-49, and outhit the enemy 123-86.

The final record during the regular season was 13-8, while overall it was 13-10. The team was 5-4 in one-run games, and only nine of the 21 games were settled by more than two runs.

Andover had one four-game win streak and two three-game skeins. The longest losing string was two straight.

Real earnings of American workers rose 1.4 percent between May and June, reaching a level 3.2 percent higher than a year ago.

Strained Foods

When baby is drinking a quart of milk in 24 hours and is still not satisfied, doctors say that it's time to start him on strained foods. He'll probably gobble up whatever is offered, but if not, stick with the milk and try again in a week or so. Don't stop meal-time cuddling at the same time, though. The change to real food will be happier.

The oar-fish, Regalecus glesne, may be one of the sea "serpents" which has been described since early times. They are flat, swim with undulations, have a red dorsal fin, the length of the body (up to 50 Ft.), which enlarges into a crest at the head. Two long red paired fins on either side of the body resemble oars, the Massachusetts Audubon Society tells us.

ROBERT KENNEDY IS RUNNING FOR U. S. CONGRESS IN THE FIFTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

He is running because he senses a frustration which goes deep into our homes and family. Let him tell you why.

"I am speaking of a family struggling to stay above the poverty line, too proud to go on welfare, worried about bills which can wipe them out financially.

It's a horrible thing when people are forced to choose between the college education of one of their children, and food, clothing and medicine for the rest of the family.

I believe the strength of a democracy is really in the will of its people to force change. I am running for Congress to bring about that change."

Robert Kennedy is a rare combination of youth and experience who cares about the economic plight of our district. Let him work for you in Congress. Elect Robert Kennedy as your Congressman in the Fifth Congressional District.

A Vegetarian Meal Helps

Heart patients on low fat diets can expand their menus with an occasional vegetarian meal, says the Northeast Chapter, Massachusetts Heart Association, providing it has the proper balance of body-building protein.

Most of the protein from meat, fish and poultry is nutritionally adequate because it contains all the essential amino acids. But vegetables often are deficient in one or more amino acids and must be combined with other foods that have them.

A proper vegetarian meal will break up the sameness of having meat or fish as a main dish and also will help cut food costs. But a lot of thought has to go into it. This is especially so if children, pregnant women and others with special dietary needs are involved.

A good vegetarian meal is one that contains the proper balance of amino acids from legumes, vegetables, grain and low-fat products. Eating just a combination of vegetables does not insure proper amino acid balance or good health.

Legumes eaten with grain (wheat, rye, rice, barley, oatmeal, etc.) will provide you with the same amino acids you would get from meat, poultry or fish. For example, a combination of beans and rice can supply you with as much protein as a large steak, but with very little fat.

Soy beans are a high quality vegetable. They can be purchased as flour, meal or powder for mixing with breads, cakes, cookies and sauces, as well as in their natural state.

Nuts and seeds follow legumes in their ability to meet your daily protein needs. Sesame seeds and sunflower seeds can be nourishing snacks, or can be used to provide good bases for soups. Seeds and nuts also can be used to season vegetables, at the same time increasing the protein total.

Skim milk, low-fat or creamed cottage cheese, pot cheese, cooked or dry cereals, fruit, whole grain bread and sherbet may be included in a vegetarian meal.

Whether you have meat as the main dish, or go vegetarian occasionally, the Heart Association recommends only a moderate intake of fats, cholesterol and calories in daily dining.

For advice on a heart-helping diet to follow the year around, ask the Northeast Chapter, Massachusetts Heart Association, located at 79 North Main St., for the pamphlet, "The Way to a Man's Heart."

Degree Program Offered

Arrangements are being completed for the Essex Agricultural and Technical Institute at Danvers to offer an associate degree in the applied sciences, Atty. Daniel J. Burke of Peabody, Chairman of the Essex County Commissioners, has announced.

Hailing the action as "a giant step forward in the educational opportunities being provided by Essex County government," Commissioner Burke said that it is expected arrangements will be completed in September for the awarding of the degree.

Commissioner Burke explained that the Danvers school has completed a three year co-operative program with the North Shore Community College at Beverly.

Under the new proposal certain two year students at the Essex Agricultural and Technical Institute will receive associate degrees at the Danvers school after attending courses on the school site and the degrees will be awarded directly by the Essex County institution.

Burke pointed out that prior to this time the arrangement for such degrees has been on a co-operative basis with North Shore Community College.

Chairman Burke reported that the state Board of Regional Community Colleges plans to designate the president of North Shore Community College to work together with officials of the Danvers school on the program.

"My colleagues and I on the County Commission are highly pleased to see this latest advance in opportunities in higher education for those Essex County students attending the Essex County Agricultural and Technical Institute," declared Commissioner Burke.

Bradford Swimmers Win Meet

On Sunday, Aug. 20, the Bradford Swim and Recreation Center was host to the third annual Aquatic League Swim Meet. In addition to the Bradford Team, contingents from Cedardale Swim and Tennis Club of Groveland, North Andover Country Club, Haverhill Country Club, Coheco Country Club of Dover, N.H. and Vesper Country Club in Tyngsboro, competed for the league championship.

When the final results were tallied it was host team Bradford emerging as top scorer. Order of finish was: 1-Bradford; 2-Haverhill; 3-Vesper; 4-Cedardale; 5-North Andover; 6-Coheco.

A number of outstanding performances were turned in by Andover swimmers. Scoring for Bradford were Chris Weissman with three seconds and Greg Weissman with two firsts and one second. Scoring well for North Andover were David Jeffrey, one third; Allan Morton, one third; David Morton, two thirds; Judy Morton, one second; David Wright, one third; Diane Wright, one second and one third; and Will Wright, one third. In addition, third place finishes in the diving competition were garnered by Judy Morton and Will Washturn for North Andover. A disappointment for Bradford was the inability of Jim DeYoreo to compete due to a fractured hand.

A top notch job of officiating was done by Charles Q. Adams of Andover.

Davoren Advises Clerks

State Secretary John F. X. Davoren has transmitted the following advisory to all city and town clerks and election commissioners in the Commonwealth's 351 cities and towns.

This action by the State Secretary was taken as a result of inquiries made to the State Election Division by municipal election officials and individuals seeking guidance in the registration process.

Most of these inquiries emanated from college students who wish to register to vote in the 1972 State election but find they will be distant from their domiciles when they return to the campus in late September.

Some plan on registering in their parents' home communities before they go to college. Others propose to register in the college community which they regard as their domicile.

The communication to city and town clerks and election commissioners is as follows:

"Inquiries to this office by some municipal clerks and election commissioners as to how to accommodate college students seeking to register as voters during the period between August 19th and September 19th have prompted this advisory. The second paragraph of Chapter 51, Section 26 of the General Laws clearly provides a method for compliance with such requests for registration.

As a matter of fact, any inhabitant of the Commonwealth eligible to register and vote also must be registered during this so-called "dead period" between the cutoff date for registration for the primary and the commencement of registration for the general election.

Most of you undoubtedly are aware of this law which specifies that you register eligible persons during the so-called "dead period" by placing their names on the voting list for the ensuing election despite the fact that they fail to meet the deadline for participation in the immediate upcoming primary election.

In essence then, all inhabitants college students as well as the general populace, are to be treated in exactly the same manner.

I think we can all agree that this law (Chapter 51, Sec. 26) is abundantly clear and states without equivocation that any eligible inhabitant of the Commonwealth legally cannot be denied the right gested for what should prove to be one of the most delightful Fall Outings of the season.

Topsfield Admission Stays Same

Directors of Topsfield Fair have voted to hold the line on its adult general admission price this year, continuing the $1. charge for persons over 12 years of age, which has been in effect since 1965. The only price change at the 148th renewal of America's oldest fair, to be held Sept. 30 thru Oct. 7, will be for children, formerly admitted free up to 12 years. The new policy will provide free admission for youngsters through six years and a half-price, 50-cent charge for children seven to 12.

Topsfield is one of fewer than 12 major fairs in the U. S., which have a total annual attendance of 300,000 or more, which has retained a $1.00 general admission in the face of rising costs in every area of operation.

Directors here said they were motivated to retain the modest admission charge by the state's high unemployment rate and the fact that a large part of Topsfield's attendance comprises family groups, with Dad having to pick up a substantial tab for food, rides and other items once his flock enters the Fair.

The parking charge on the grounds and in nearby lots operated by the sponsoring Essex Agricultural Society also remains at $1. per car.

Safety And Kite Flying

"Go fly a kite," but first consider these safety hints.

A common danger when kite-flying is electrocution, which often occurs when a kite gets caught in electric high-tension wires, says the Institute for Safer Living of the American Mutual Insurance Companies.

If your kite does get caught -- don't try to retrieve it -- make a new one.

Never use wire as a kite line or any sort of metal in the kite's construction. Should the kite snag on a power line, severe burns could result. Even non-metallic string, if wet or damp, can conduct electricity.

Fly your kite on dry days in an open field or on a beach. Match the size of the kite with the ability of the person to handle it.

The Institute warns that telephone lines, electric wires, and television antennae are potential hazards.

Launching a kite usually involves running -- watch out for rocks, stones, stumps, ditches and fences. Since attention centers on the kite, not the ground, survey the area to prevent falls, and wear shoes to protect your feet from cuts or stubbed toes.

Institute Outing At Museum

Pumpkin-colored invitations have been mailed to members of the Essex Institute for a Fall Outing, Tuesday, Oct. 3.

Co-chairmen Mrs. Joseph C. Roper, Jr. of Marblehead and Mrs. John Pickering of Salem have arranged a delightful bus tour to explore a section of one of the most historically fascinating counties in the nation.

Buses will leave the Essex Institute at 10 a.m. and proceed to the Merrimack Valley Textile Museum in North Andover. There one can inspect a major exhibit illustrating how woolen cloth was made between 1775 and 1876. Spinning and weaving demonstrations will be included.

The Johnson Cottage, typical of the late eighteenth century, and the adjoining North Andover Historical Society Headquarters will be the next stop, to see beautiful examples of Chipendale, Queen Anne, Sheraton, and Hepplewhite furniture.

The Parson Barnard House, a registered Massachusetts Landmark, built by Reverend Thomas Barnard in 1715 is included in the tour. A visit to the Addison Gallery of American Art at Phillips Academy, Andover will follow a buffet luncheon at the Andover Inn.

Earnings per share rose 24 percent to $1.46 with the prior year share. Sales in the amounted to $33,350,000 before extraordinary income amounted to $1,604,000.

Mr. Hogan said the Company's strong performance can be attributed to sales gains at major markets in addition to a program which achieved reductions and productivity throughout the year.

He indicated that Standard is substantially ahead of the general trend and the general trend is excellent. "We have a favorable trend to continue through the current year," he said, and he added the Company expects record operating earnings next year, earnings which will be considerably higher as a result of Standard's tender offer.

Standard International reduced the outstanding of common shares 10 percent through a tender to its stockholders, increasing stockholder share as well as share. At year end shares outstanding 3,907,000; as of October 2, 835,000 average standing. Based on number of shares outstanding, earnings per share for the fiscal year would be approximately $1.73 per share, book value of $17.55 amounts to $17.55 from $12.27 per share 30, 1971. ## Standard Sets New Records

Standard International Corporation (NYSE) reported that the Company set new records in sales, net income and earnings per share in the fiscal year ended June 30. Stating that the year was the most eventful in Standard's history, President Daniel E. Hogan predicted that fiscal 1973 "will be another record - breaking year for the Company."

Earnings per share (before extraordinary income) rose 15 percent to $1.46 in fiscal 1972, up from prior year's $1.27 per share. The Company earned $5,727,000 (before extraordinary items) on sales of $125 million in the latest fiscal year, as compared with income of $5,254,000 on sales of $119,567,000 the year before.

Standard also realized net extraordinary gains of $6,636,000 or $1.70 per share in the latest year, as against $5,700,000 or $1.41 the year before. The extraordinary gains resulted from the sale of some of Standard's holdings of A. T. Cross stock and Squibb Corporation stock.

Sales in the fourth quarter were the best of any quarter in the Company's history and net operating income was the best of any quarter in the past three years.

Earnings per common share rose 24 percent to 41¢, compared with the prior year's 33¢ per share. Sales in the last quarter amounted to $33,357,000 and income before extraordinary items amounted to $1,604,000.

Mr. Hogan said, "The Company's strong performance can be attributed to important sales gains at many divisions in addition to a corporate program which achieved cost reductions and increased productivity throughout the Corporation."

He indicated that backlogs are substantially ahead of a year ago and the general tone of business is excellent. "We expect the favorable trend to continue right through the current fiscal year," he said, and he added that while the Company expects to show record operating earnings in the new year, earnings per share will be considerably greater as a result of Standard's recent Tender offer.

Standard International recently reduced the outstanding number of common shares by about 30 percent through a Tender Offer to its stockholders, thereby increasing stockholders' equity per share as well as earnings per share. At year end, average shares outstanding were 3,907,000; as of today, there are 2,835,000 average shares outstanding. Based on the average number of shares currently outstanding, earnings for the 1972 fiscal year would amount to approximately $1.73 per share and book value of the Company amounts to $17.55 a share, up from $12.27 per share as of June 30, 1971. Mr. Hogan indicated that the full benefits of this reduction in capitalization would be realized by the Company and its stockholders in the new fiscal year and in succeeding years.

Standard International has realized approximately $47 million (net of applicable taxes) from its holdings of Squibb and A. T. Cross stock. 400,000 shares of its Cross stock are now in registration and expected to be sold shortly, leaving Standard with a balance of 50,000 shares as an investment. These extraordinary funds have been utilized, Mr. Hogan said, to pay for the repurchase of its own stock, for acquisitions, for capital expansion and for the prepayment of various long-term debts and mortgages. Long-term debt has been reduced to about $19 million from $29 million as of June 30, 1971, thereby substantially reducing interest expense.

Standard International spent a record $8.5 million on expansion and modernization of existing operations in fiscal 1972. The Company made five acquisitions in the year, all of which complement existing operations. Standard International is a diversified manufacturing organization, operating in four basic growth areas: Consumer Products; Graphics; Food Service and Hospital Equipment; and Industrial Products.

Nutritional Programs Offered

Nutritional programs for low-income residents of Essex County are being offered by the County with a federal grant, Atty. Daniel J. Burke of Peabody, Chairman of the Essex County Commissioners, has announced.

Commissioner Burke said that the program is being directed by staff members of the Essex County Agricultural and Technical Institute.

Under the plan three home economists work on the program to upgrade the nutritional program of the underprivileged and low income residents of Essex County.

Commissioner Burke announced that one of the economists is assigned to Lynn and one to Gloucester with the third working at the school.

In addition, Burke said, 14 technical assistants have been assigned to Lynn and three to Lawrence to work on the program.

Burke said that the technical assistants go directly into the homes of those persons eligible and train them to upgrade their nutritional program.

Other aspects of the program see the staff work together with various clubs and organizations, such as golden age clubs, throughout Essex County to provide better nutritional standards for the members.

Methuen Recitals Continue

The summer series of organ recitals at the Methuen Memorial Music Hall continues with Marian Ruhl on Wednesday evening, Aug. 30 at 8:30 p.m.

Miss Ruhl received her Bachelor of Music degree from Baldwin-Wallace College, and her Master of Music degree from Boston University, where she studied with Max Miller. She has also studied with Anton Heiller at the Academy of Music in Vienna, and has attended several sessions of the Harlem Summer Academy in Holland. Until recently assistant organist at Memorial Church, Harvard University, she is presently a teacher of voice and organ in Boston, and performs in both media.

For her program, Miss Ruhl has selected: Paeon - Kenneth Leighton; Fugue and Choral - Arthur Honegger; Three Inventions - Cor Kee; Ofertoire in D Major - Jean-Francois Dandrieu; Choral Prelude on "Nun kimm' der Heiden Heiland", BWV 659 - Johann Sebastian Bach; Toccata and Fugue in D minor, BWV 565 - Johann Sebastian Bach; Messe de la Pentecote (Communion, Sortie) - Olivier Messiaen; Cantabile - Cesar Franck; and Sonata No. 1 in F minor, Op. 65 (Allegro moderato, Adagio, Andante recitativo, Allegro assai vivace) - Felix Mendelssohn.

The interior of the Music Hall is of an elegant design. Certainly its grandeur is due to the influence of Edward F. Searles who had the building constructed to house the old Boston Music Hall organ. Mr. Searles was a recognized expert in the field of interior decoration and was a member of the Herter Brothers firm in New York, a leading consulting firm to the art cognizant wealthy. The building is of the Latin cross type of plan. The organ is located in the chancel; audience seating space is provided by the nave and transepts. The walls, over three feet in thickness, contain air spaces which make the hall very nearly soundproof, and also, relatively impervious to extreme weather conditions. Marble squares, alternately reddish-brown and gray-white in color, form the floor. The lower interior walls, to a height of about ten feet, are finished in dark oak panelling; above that are panels of tapestry-like fabric which absorb excessive reverberation and provide a contrasting texture to the plaster walls in which they are placed. The ceiling is an immense Roman barrel vault, executed in plaster with profuse classical detail. This vault appears to rest on a classic entablature, the cornice of which conceals indirect lighting. Roman Corinthian pilasters at the corners complete the classic vocabulary of the design.

Admission to the recital is two dollars at the door, fifty cents for children.

The Music Hall is located on Broadway (Route 28) in Methuen, just south of the square.

The following week, on Sept. 6, organist Yuko Hayashi will devote her entire program to a performance of "La Nativite du Seigneur" by Olivier Messiaen.

Final Performances On Weekend

"Long Day's Journey Into Night," the drama that gave Eugene O'Neill his fourth Pulitzer Prize, will be presented by The Garrett Players, at Bavarian Hall, 41 Knox Street, Lawrence, Aug. 24, 25 and 26 at 8:30 p.m.

The play is noteworthy on several counts. It is autobiographical and both its publication and production go against the expressed instructions of the playwright.

After its completion in 1941, O'Neill said that it should not be produced, at least not in the United States, until 25 years after his death. Before he died in 1953 after a long illness during which writing was physical torture, O'Neill left to his wife a dedication of the play that suggests his intentions in writing it.

It reads: "Dearest: I give you the original script of this play of old sorrow written in tears and blood. A sadly inappropriate gift, it would seem, for a day celebrating happiness (their 12th anniversary). But you will understand. I mean it as a tribute to your love and tenderness which gave me the faith in love that enabled me to face my dead at last and write this play - write it with deep pity and understanding and forgiveness for all the four haunted Tyronees.

These twelve years, Beloved One, have been a Journey into Light - into love."

The family in "Long Day's Journey Into Night" is called Tyrone. The character of the blustering, tyrannical father who is a fading matinee idol, as was O'Neill's father, James. The part will be played by John Timmons. Miss Sandra DeVellis will be seen as the mother who has become a drug addict, and Paul E. Hart will portray the older brother who is an alcoholic.

Depicting O'Neill himself when he was suffering both from an extreme illness and from the violent passions that wrecked his home life will be John Palmer. Miss Cynthia Lueders will play the only other character in the play, an Irish maid, Mrs. Pamela Palmer is directing the drama, and Robert Moore is the Assistant Director.

Management Accounting Program

The concept of the complete corporate financial manager, a long sought after dream of many businessmen, took a gigantic leap forward when Bentley College's Center for Continuing Education announced it will inaugurate one of the first national "Certificate of Management Accounting" review programs on Sept. 5.

The CMA course is specifically designed to bring the accountant into closer contact with the overall business function of a corporation. It is the result of research by the National Association of Accountants to which most of the nation's accountants belong.

The Bentley program will be a series of evening and Saturday sessions running from Sept. 5 through Dec. 2, ending just before the NAA administered Management Accounting test in early December. The Tuesday and Thursday evening classes will meet from 6 - 10 p.m. and the Saturday classes will meet from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

"In effect, the CMA program will be continuing education for professional accountants not unlike the prestigious Certified Public Accountant (CPA) tag which many accountants currently have," said Bentley's Continuing Education Director Professor Clifford Youse. "Since the accountant usually has a very dramatic role to play in most business decisions, whether with small or large businesses, there is a pressing need for education which can broaden his perspective to include the whole range of business enterprise."

In response to the needs of business and at the request of many in the academic community, the National Association of Accountants has established a program to recognize this professional competence in the Management Accounting field -- a program leading to the Certificate in Management Accounting.

The CMA program requires a candidate to pass a series of uniform examinations and meet specific educational and professional standards to qualify for and maintain the Certificate in Management Accounting. NAA has established the Institute for Management Accounting to administer the program, conduct the examinations and grant certificates to those who qualify. The program is open to all qualified persons, whether or not they are members of the NAA.

A Certificate in Management Accounting will be awarded to candidates who (1) pass all five parts on the certifying examination within three years of acceptance into the program, and (2) have completed, within seven years of having passed the certifying examination, two years of related professional experience in management accounting.

For further information about this unique educational opportunity write the Center for Continuing Education, Bentley College, Waltham, Mass. 02154.

Kennedy Is Pleased With Science Bill

Senator Edward M. Kennedy today said he "was extremely gratified" with the overwhelming Senate passage of S. 32, the National Science Policy and Priorities Act, a bill "to turn our scientific talent to the real needs of our people."

The bill passed the Senate by the overwhelming vote of 70 to 8. Senator Kennedy said:

"This Act puts over $1 billion into scientific research and development directed at meeting human needs. It establishes a new NASA-like agency, the Civil Science Systems Administration which would function like the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. But instead of moving men to the moon, it would focus on our communities here at home.

"This agency would contract with industry and universities for the design of innovative public services, in health care, transportation, housing, nutrition, public safety, fire fighting, education, communications, energy supplies, etc. The resulting systems would be publicly demonstrated to stimulate their use in new and existing communities.

ANOTHER RUN. A little different in appearance but still with the same destination, "The Flying Yankee," once the pride of the rails of the Boston and Maine railroad made another run to Portland, Maine and return on a special junket last Saturday. The Buddliner, made its stop in Andover and proceeded to its Maine destination in sleek Buddliner cars, rather than the long diesel engine and passenger car motif which made the final run in 1964.

mate for Learning committee headed this past year by Garry Stephens, to continue its work of examining the school system and determining the desires of the townspeople.

The study committee would be composed of citizens from the town working as a parent study group, and an educator's group, with members of both intermingling to go over ideas and plans.

Dr. Seifert told the school committee that he would like to see representation from the group which has been studying alternative education at meetings in Memorial Hall Library, and proposed their inclusion in the study group makeup.

The main problem resulted from a misunderstanding of the working of the committee particularly in the area of the appointment of the professional educators.

One resident felt that such a setup was structuring antagonistic groups.

Dr. Seifert tried to explain that private groups can conduct any studies they desire on their own, but his and the school committee responsibility was to work within the system.

If a system is to be devised for Andover, then those responsible for carrying it out, namely teachers and administrators should be represented in the planning, he emphasized.

Another resident, who is concerned with the free school concept, looked upon the committee makeup as "difusing," the efforts of the group meeting at the library.

Seifert again explained that the particular interest group represents one phase of the overall study, while the school department has a responsibility to examine the overall program and determine what is best for the town.

School committee members attempted to explain their proper understanding of the proposal as being representative for all interests.

When one speaker referred to William King as "that man," the school committee chairman politely informed her of why he was sitting at the particular position at the table and once again said the aim of the committee is to come up with a program out of a complete study of all matters, and referred to the superintendent's goal of "educating children who are more independent learners and not a competition of structures."

Dr. Seifert then took to the blackboard, drew a circle and showed how the overall committee was intended to work together, after which there was general agreement to the comment, "now the fog has lifted."

It is anticipated that the committee will be named by Sept. 15 and set loose on its course.

Shade Trees Can Be Saved From Bulldozers

Shade trees in new home developments can be saved from bulldozer "blight".

Developers and builders are finding that all it takes is a little extra care, starting with earth-moving machinery during construction.

"Bulldozer 'blight' has been killing prized shade trees for years" reports Mr. Robert A. Bartlett, president of The F. A. Bartlett Tree Expert Company. "Tree death is usually slow - often occurring several years after new homes are purchased. Then, unexpectedly home owners are burdened with the costly job of tree removals and replacement."

Invariably what happened was this: As houses were built, surface roots of nearby trees were needlessly ripped up. Heavy bulldozers also crushed some of the remaining roots or packed earth about them. Scooped-away soil resulted in a change in the water table. In other cases, fill was added, suffocating the root system. Often, big roots were unnecessarily severed in laying utility mains.

Builders are now beginning to take steps to preserve trees from the moment a new suburban development is opened up. Tree specialists are called in to help decide which existing trees should remain. House, garage and utility lines are placed in relation to these trees.

Tree trunks are boxed in during construction to prevent scarring of bark and other accidental maltreatment. Underbrush is cleared away. Bulldozers are kept away from tree roots. Before fills are added, proper drainage and other protective measures are taken. Utility mains are carefully tunneled through or beneath the root system to minimize root injury. The trees are then pruned and fed.

This construction care of trees is important. More and more, trees, as living monuments of beauty, are making housing sites attractive and valuable to owners.

Water

cess designed to remove taste and odors.

Chemical precipitation is introduced along the way to purify the water.

This higher degree of treatment and processing permits the removal of the products which could produce undesirable taste factors.

The water is also to be stored in the pond with the plans designed to maintain a safe yield level for a year at all times.

Through this process, the water in storage received natural sunlight and aeration, thus making the water practically of natural quality.

The storage factor to be effected by the treatment plant insures a safe, palatable supply at all times.

Water is to be taken from the Merrimack only at peak flow periods, thus the reduction of high pollution content. If drought conditions in the spring of the year, when the town would be taking water from the Fish Brook watershed area should prevail, then the town would have a full pond to draw on through the designed storage capacity at Haggetts.

So, modern technology and nature will combine to produce a palatable and ample water supply when the new plant is ready for operations, hopefully by next April.

CONTROLLING HAY FEVER

Allergy specialists advise that there is something you can do about hay fever. In fact, they advise a number of measures that can be taken to avoid hay fever and its distressing symptoms. Some of them follow:

Wear glasses. Large motorcycle types are considered best.

Keep doors and windows closed, especially on windy, dry days when pollen flows freely.

Turn air conditioner on a few hours before spending time in a room. Be sure the unit has a good filter.

Keep front windows of automobiles closed to prevent pollen-saturated air from blowing in.

Stay indoors on days on which there are high pollen counts.

Avoid garden work and garden sprays. Do not allow fresh cut flowers in your home.

A Boat

A comparatively small item is being included in the warrant for the October town meeting and worthy of positive consideration.

It is small only in comparison to what is considered the major attention getters for the fall session and requests funds for obtaining a new boat for the fire department.

The public safety department has requested three boats for the fire department to have available for water emergency service.

The selectmen have inserted the article in the October session for one boat, with the two additional units to be sought at the regular meeting in March.

The boats currently available to the department are now considered to be inadequate to meet modern needs.

A tragedy on the Shawsheen river earlier this summer brought the point home more clearly that more adequate protection is needed.

It seems imperative to obtain the proper equipment to meet the increasing use of our waterways.

Bargains

The town has reaped some substantial benefits recently through the acquisition of electronic equipment from the federal government.

The acquisition was accomplished through the work of John Lewis, federal-state co-ordinator, who has been employed by the town under the Emergency Employment Act.

His diligence in securing the device has represented a saving of considerable funds. The equipment had been sought by the police department and town meeting had approved a substantial appropriation.

When Lewis was brought on board through the federal employment program, he went to work on attempting to obtain this piece of equipment and his search proved successful.

This is but one item the co-ordinator has been able to obtain.

He has been working on the processing of applications for additional programs and equipment for the town.

One of the new concepts of municipal government is being able to wade through the myriad of paper work federal and state authorities desire in order to qualify for assistance in various desirable or needed programs.

The availability of Lewis, who is being paid through federal funds, has made it possible for Andover to take advantage of opportunities.

The recording equipment at the police station is but a first step toward further accomplishment.

It is to be hoped that additional benefits will be reaped from Mr. Lewis' diligence.

Bikes

It is with increasing alarm that we note the number of bicycle accidents reported in recent weeks.

We are cognizant of the values of cycling and aware of the increasing use of bikes for both pleasure and health.

But we are alarmed at the amount of carelessness which has resulted in accidents via the two-wheeled vehicles, some motorized.

Safety Officer Richard Aumais annually drives home to the youngsters of the community the value of being safety conscious, dutifully and repetitiously reciting the rules of the road to school children.

Yet, we are still plagued by incidents of cycle accidents.

A little more attention to the lessons imparted by the safety officer would go a long way in avoiding such happenings, and this goes for the adults of the community as well as the younger set.

While on the subject of cycling, we must also note the continuing problem of youngsters riding on sidewalks in the downtown area.

It is not only unlawful but highly dangerous.

Being alert at all times and obedient to the laws will prove quite conducive to the healthy exercise which accompanies bike riding.

The town has two rivers and several ponds which are being utilized more and more for recreational purposes. All things point to an even greater use of the waterways for pleasure and recreational purposes.

Despite all precautions, however, accidents will happen and the need for proper equipment is a necessity.

At the time of the tragedy on the Shawsheen, some out-of-town public safety officials were somewhat critical of Andover's equipment.

We are not in a position to make judgment as to the facilities available.

We do know and are confident that Andover has the manpower to operate public safety procedures quite capably when called upon.

Sufficient and capable manpower is not enough, however.

Proper tools to perform the job are necessary.

The cost of a new boat would seem to be quite nominal, in view of its life saving potential.

Off The Top Of The Desk

Andover is not the only community having dump problems.

One of the towns in the mid Cape Cod area was cited by state authorities similar to Andover.

The state also assisted the town in finding a new location for its landfill site, suggesting acquisition of considerable acreage adjacent to the present site.

The town obtained the property, then found itself in violation of its own zoning laws.

This week the municipal officials were preparing to go before the board of appeals for a special permit to operate a landfill, feeling the action more advisable than going to a special town meeting for rezoning.

People out in the western part of the state are boasting about the effects of the Connecticut river cleanup operations.

Efforts over the past couple of years in this direction has resulted in considerable stream improvement, to the point where it is becoming an even more popular water recreation source.

Maybe within a few years we, in the Merrimack Valley will be doing likewise, with the proposed improvement of the conditions along the Merrimack River.

A Bedford firm will soon be contributing its bit toward environmental improvement.

Anderson Power Products will begin rolling electric automobiles off the assembly line in the early fall, according to present projections.

Such vehicles were initially built in the 19th century and are attempting a comeback through the firm's efforts.

"Driving at night requires extra caution for few people can see as well at night as during daylight hours," says David J. Christensen, Executive Vice President of the Automobile Club of Merrimack Valley.

Various degrees of temporary blindness are caused by the glare from other vehicles. Reduce your speed at once -- impaired vision means less time for reaction to the unexpected.

The tired driver is a poor driver and should he add alcohol, the hazard is increased. Always drive alert, well rested, and sober.

Keep the automobile in tip-top condition. Clean the headlights and windshield for maximum vision.

Remember, by being prepared for an emergency, you can reduce the likelihood of its occurrence.

One of the more appropos comments heard during the Republican hoopla in Miami this week came during Sen. Barry Goldwater's address Monday night.

He ripped apart Democrats, praised Nixon and captured the applause of those who apparently deserted him in his bid for the Presidency eight years ago.

During a thunderous ovation following one of his jibes at the opposition, he was heard to remark, where were you when I needed you in '64.

Occasionally we mention our Letters to the Editor policy, one particular requirement being that the letters be signed.

We are in receipt of a letter and accompanying magazine documentation of the writer's comments on the Free school concept which was simply signed "An Andover Resident," which could be any one of 23,695 people according to the last census.

Signatures and addresses would be appreciated.

Down the Years with The Townsman

75 Years Ago - August, 1897

The Ballardvale engine house, struck by lightning Sunday, is being repaired by Hardy & Cole, as ordered by Mr. Smart on behalf of the insurance company.

Charles Warden, Clerk at J. P. Wakefield's market, was thrown from his bicycle last evening on North Main st., as the result of a collision. His head struck on the pavement between the car tracks and his face was badly cut and scraped. His left hand also was painfully bruised. Warden mounted his wheel and rode to Allen's drugstore where his injuries were treated.

A pleasant lawn party was held by the Free Church Christian Endeavor Society at the home of Charles B. Baldwin on Summer st. Friday evening. Music was furnished throughout the evening by Lindsay's orchestra.

Mrs. William M. Wood entertained a merry crowd of little folk on Tuesday, at her beautiful summer home at Little Boar's Head. It was a birthday party for Mrs. Wood's young daughter, Rosalind, and the little guests were treated to a drive around the bluff, a supper, out-of-door games and altogether were given a delightful afternoon.

50 Years Ago - August, 1922

The assessors have announced the tax rate at $28.00, an increase of $1.50 over that of 1921. With the sum of $325,000 to be raised, almost $40,000 more than was required last year, this rate comes well within the figures anticipated by anxious taxpayers.

A mis-step on a slippery floor cost John Snyder of Ballardvale, rubber worker at the factory of the Tyer Rubber Company, four fingers on his right hand and three fingers on his left hand in an accident which happened just before closing time yesterday afternoon.

Miss Elizabeth Ward of Andover is at the Children's Island Sanitarium, Marblehead, where she is in charge of the corrective and orthopedic work. There are 100 hospital cases of children between the ages of 3 and 12 and an important part of the routine is the daily posture drill and corrective massage. She is most enthusiastic about her work and finds the children splendid little co-workers.

Miss Marion Farnsworth of the Andover National Bank is enjoying a vacation at Oaks Bluff.

25 Years Ago - August, 1947

A happy family party was held on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Slate on Argilla road. The hot dogs and hamburg were cooked on an open fire, and homemade lemon sherbet and roast corn completed a very appetizing meal.

The Andover Steam Laundry advertised its closing from Aug. 23 to Sept. 2 for vacation. All

Beacon Hill Observations

By Bill Kirtz

Representing 70 percent of the state's population, but with only a $125,000 annual budget, the Massachusetts League of Cities and Towns is trying to make home rule a reality.

"I doubt very much whether it exists now," complains League executive director Kenneth E. Pickard. And because of this, he feels, communities are "ham-strung" in trying to modernize their operating procedures.

The 13-year-old organization tries to overcome its lack of finances by contacting key State House lawmakers and administrators about such items as binding arbitration in employee disputes and the lack of a merit system for community workers -- both of which Mr. Pickard opposes.

Mr. Pickard, who joined the League in 1970 after a seven-year stint as Rhode Island's chief advisor on local and metropolitan government, says communities should have more say over their operations: from administration to spending.

He hopes Massachusetts will be the scene of the U.S.'s first pilot project in municipal management reform. Under this federally-funded program, towns would get expert help in analyzing their present operations and in deciding how these could be streamlined.

Would a town save money by creating a Public Works Department, for example? The federal program would scrutinize such items as truck and gasoline usage to help come up with the best answer for each community.

Contending that cities and towns are hamstrung by having to seek Legislative approval before changing their method of government, Mr. Pickard has used personal contact, phone calls and even planes (sporting slogans on streamers) to help lobby for League causes.

"They said we couldn't defeat a bill allowing town employees the right to binding arbitration" of contract disputes, he says, "but we did."

He's one of 30 labor and management leaders who this fall will participate in an experiment under which labor relations grievance cases will be heard and decided within two weeks.

The program is aimed at cutting both the time and cost of arbitration issues.

But Mr. Pickard isn't only concerned with state issues. He's recently huddled with Massachusetts Congressmen Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr., and James A. Burke -- both members of a committee to finalize details of the federal revenue-sharing bill approved by the House and due to be passed by the Senate.

He's met Vice-President Spiro Agnew and is impressed with his commitment to revenue sharing which, it's hoped will give localities more money to spend as they wish.

Mr. Pickard believes communities should be able to help determine county budgets (now fixed by the Legislature), that the Legislature shouldn't approve spending bills without also funding their costs and backs methods of bonding regional projects.

The League tries to spark grassroots interest in its programs by issuing weekly bulletins to local officials and hoping they can spread the word to their constituents.

How has this worked out? "Local officials," he concludes, "are better-informed than they used to be."

According to Logan, priority for the grants was given to institutions serving large numbers of low-income and minority students.

BEAUJOLAIS

Beaujolais is one of the best known red wines. In America, it outsells those from any other French district. Although not as scarce, exciting or expensive as the best wines of Bordeaux, they include some of the most enjoyable wines produced anywhere — and some of the best values.
Beaujolais is considered a Burgundy, even though it is made from the gamay grape instead of the pinot noir. "It is a light wine you can drink all day," say the French, who like it best with chicken and sausage.

Beaujolais is drunk cold, not at room temperature as are the great red wines of Burgundy. It is a fun wine for picnics and backyard barbecues in summer. Some of the best wines of the region are labelled with the name of a township or region (ie: Moulin - a - Vent, Morgon, Julienas) but the bulk of them are simply called Beaujolais.

North Andover A While Ago

75 Years Ago - August, 1897

While some freight cars were being shifted, yesterday afternoon, from the side track at the North Andover mill, one of the steel rails snapped in two, throwing the driving wheels off into the soft road bed. A wrecking train responded promptly from Lawrence and the engine was soon on the iron. No damage was done to the engine and about one hour was lost.

Farmers are hoping to have good hay weather, as the second crop of grass is quite heavy this year.

The dwelling house near Higgins Market, owned by Mrs. Hodges, is being newly shingled.

There is a bird similar to the blackbird, but is a little larger called the fruit bird, which is doing considerable damage to fruit in town.

A. M. Robinson, superintendent of Mrs. James Davis' farm, met with an accident on Sunday, being thrown from his wagon with considerable force. The physician in attendance is of the opinion that his lower ribs have been fractured.

Thieves took tires and other items amounting to a considerable sum in a break at the Brightwood Mill shops on Sutton street near the depot.

10 Years Ago - August, 1962

The annual swimming meet will be held Sunday at Stevens Pond. New regulations regarding speed on Sutton Street are adopted by the selectmen and ordered enforced by the police department.

The selectmen have requested the state Department of Public Works to take some action to improve safety conditions on the newly resurfaced section of Osgood Street as a result of a number of accidents in the particular area.

The contractor demolishing homes and buildings in the path of Route 495 has informed the police department that no further salvage operations on the part of the public is allowed.

A Methuen property owner has been ordered to stop work on his Sutton Street land until town by-laws, health and building codes are met.

BUYING A LOT

Buying land involves risks. Contrary to popular belief, land is not a fail-safe investment. The Florida land boom of the mid 20's was not the only time people lost money speculating in land. It happens every day. Here are some guidelines which may help in reducing the risk factor.

Generally speaking, the more you pay for a lot, the surer you are of getting your money's worth. If you pay $3,000 for a developed lot with utility lines already in, you may be better off than buying the same lot for $1,000 before the roads and utilities are built out to it. Development costs vary, but almost anywhere they are rising every year.

If you are not a land expert, the most preferred method of buying a lot is to have a Realtor do your negotiating. His most valuable asset is his knowledge of property values and you are better off with him on your side.

Do you have special real estate problems? Why not let us solve them! JAMES T. TREFREY, REALTOR is proud to offer you a complete real estate service. A qualified staff member is always on hand to serve you when you deal with us...and we've got over 30 years of experience! See us soon: JAMES T. TREFREY, 5 Lowell St., phone 475-0622. The contract for the new fire escape for the Stowe School was awarded to the Hub Steel and Iron Works at the special session of the School Committee held last Monday evening for the low bid of $4,435, plus an additional cost of a door, not to exceed $150. Several residents of Lovajoy road, expressing mild annoyance with the Electric Company, have asked the rubble around the base of poles be cleaned up, and the area returned to normal condition.

The appointment of Dr. William V. Emmons, 9 Locke St., as director of the Department of Organization for the American Optometric Association has been announced by the association's national office in St. Louis.

Tomatoes In Good Supply

Fresh, locally grown tomatoes are now in excellent supply at roadside stands and produce counters across the state, according to the Massachusetts Department of Agriculture. Allowed to ripen in the field, locally grown tomatoes always have more flavor. Many people buy them by the bushel to can for use during the fall and winter. Tomatoes are one of the easiest vegetables to preserve successfully.

First of the season apples are now available from nearby orchards. Early McIntosh, Sweet William, red and green Gravensteins are in good supply. Because of its natural tartness, the green Gravenstein makes an excellent apple pie, but all varieties can be used.

Local cultivated blueberries are in good supply too. One cultivated blueberry is usually equal in size to three wild ones. They're twice as juicy and sweet, firmer and plumper, and blue as the summer sky over Cape Cod. Massachusetts blues can be used in a variety of baked goods, or for a simple, yet delicious dessert, with fresh dairy cream.

Fresh cucumbers and pickling cucumbers rate best buys status this week. While the salad cuke is large and deepgreen, the pickling cuke is usually less than 4 inches long and is a much paler green.

New Horizons

The New Horizons group is holding weekly meetings again, after a summer recess. The members of the group are men and women who are currently unemployed, many of them are in the professions, and many worked formerly on Route 128 as scientists in the technological industries. The group is working together to find the most effective ways to locate jobs. The meetings are on Monday evenings at 8 p.m. in the Print Room of the library.

A group of parents and teachers is meeting at the library on Wednesday evenings to discuss the alternatives to the present system of education. They are assessing the meaning of open education and considering its possibilities for Andover. The meetings are held at 8 p.m. and are open to the public. A display of background books on the subject of open education is now on view in the main reading room at the library.

A very popular chess class is still going strong on Tuesday evenings at the library. Any one of any age who is interested in the game of chess is invited to attend class at 7 p.m. in the Print Room.

Film

Far From the Madding Crowd, a film in color will be shown at the Baptist Church on September 20 at 7 in the evening. The library extends an invitation to everyone, especially our young people, to see the film. It will cost 25¢. Here is a good chance to see a fine film at small expense.

Children's Room

Good News for the parents of youngsters age 3-1/2 (by Oct. 1, please) to 5 years. We have a few openings in our Little Listeners storyhour registrations for the coming year. Groups of 15 children will meet Tuesday or Wednesday mornings (as you indicate) all year except for school vacations, for stories, games, records and lots of fun! Children must be residents of Andover and may not be attending Nursery School or Kindergarten. Register Now -- first come...

Artists From Trash Heaps

By Polly Bradley

Are you embarrassed by the amount of trash going into your barrels these days? Do you want to help solve the solid waste problem, but do not quite know how to go about it?

It's easy, if you have kids. I have three, and with their help and the help of their friends, I have practically no solid waste problem.

We recycle ours into art. Pictures, puppets, collages, machines, sculptures, ornaments, dolls. You name it, we make it.

We have a whole acting school full of puppets made with old plastic bottles, cotton candy cones, and scraps of leftover sewing material.

Supermarket trays make excellent containers for sandscapes, made not only from sand, pebbles, and beach glass, but also from all varieties of litter collected from the beach.

Collages can be made from just about anything, with the help of a little glue and some poster paint.

Our trash barrels are nearly always empty, because I do not dare to throw away some treasure out of which a work of art might be made, lest I incur the wrath of some child. In fact, when I do decide to throw something away, I hide it in a closet where no one will see, then just as I observe the garbage man three doors away I race out to put the trash on the sidewalk.

If the children are in school, this is fine. If not, they race out after me and rescue their treasure from under the trash man's nose. On the way back, they pick up an extra armload of trashures -- I mean treasures -- from the neighbor's barrel.

Old chunks of wood become boats, trains, cars, trucks or just plain building blocks. Large ones are great for go-carts. The boys ride their bikes up and down the street every garbage day hoping that someone will have thrown out an old baby carriage, so they can add one more go-cart to the already outstanding collection.

The Cub Scouts of our town have made a tin can man from old soft drink cans. His name is Cubby, and the den with the best attendance at pack meeting proudly takes him to the home of the lucky den mother, who gets to decorate her home with him for a whole month. Then, of course, she is inspired to urge good attendance the next month, so she can keep him in his place of honor.

Even without the help of Cubby, creative activity flourishes in our home. As the house gets more crowded, the wall space gets smaller, the refrigerator and cabinets are artfully hidden and harder to find, the shelf space gets scarcer, the mantle becomes fuller, and this week's sculptures are sitting in the laps of last week's puppets.

But we have cut down on the solid waste problem! We have created beauty out of chaos! Or is it the other way around?

One neighbor suggested we might be better off transferring the local dump to our house, rather than ever trying to clean out our trashart. It would require fewer trucks.

Legislature Left Programs Unfunded

The 1972 Legislature left some programs and services without funds, and others unfunded, while adding $47.1 million to the Governor's 1973 budget recommendations, according to a Massachusetts Taxpayers Foundation report released today.

New legislation not funded, includes: Five member appellate court; Office of Children under the Department of Human Services; prison reform legislation; Environmental Protection Division in the Attorney General's Office; five additional members of the Industrial Accident Board; salary increases for District Attorneys and their assistants; salary increases for all legislators for calendar 1973, legislative committee chairmen and the Speaker of the House and President of the Senate.

Despite additions made by the Legislature, required payments to cities and towns fell short by at least $80 million.

Items needing additional funds include:

Loss of taxes for state-owned land, short by an estimated $9 million;

Regional school 15 percent incentive payment, short by $6 million;

School building assistance, short by $25 million;
School transportation, short by $15 million;

Vocational education, short by $2 million;

Chapter 70 School Aid and other distributions, short by $25 million.

The report, titled "The 1973 State Budget: A Post-Session Analysis," said much of the Legislature's $47.1 million addition to the budget is for the state employee cost-of-living pay raise. This increase totals $28 million for 18 months and will likely be inadequate to meet the cost.

The potential $51 million in savings from the Federation-devised freeze more than equals the additions made by the Legislature. However, this saving does not begin to meet the $100 million or more in new programs, items omitted from the budget or unfunded.

The Federation report said, "It is obvious that the success of the freeze will be an important factor in determining how the Commonwealth fares in fiscal 1973."

Calling for even greater restraints on spending programs in the future, the report said, "The Commonwealth's fiscal problems compel us to act now to avoid compounding them for the next fiscal year and thereafter. Before the state commits itself to new programs and obligations, it must carefully consider the availability of sufficient revenues to meet the costs.

"Sound fiscal planning will keep spending within the ability of the state's economy to finance it. Only then can we prevent the fiscal difficulties facing us in 1973 from escalating in future years."

"Massachusetts cannot afford programs that will drain substantial additional tax dollars from the pockets of the hard-pressed taxpayer," the report concludes.

7 cars for 7 brothers.

1. To carry his paints and canvases around with him, Wyatt needed a car with a large trunk. The Audi has the same amount of trunk space as the Lincoln Continental Mark IV.

2. Bernard has a problem. Not only doesn't he take care of himself (a button missing here, a cuff link lost there), he doesn't take care of his car either. No wonder he wanted a car that gets the expert service of a Volkswagen. The Audi does because it's part of the VW organization.

3. Since Edgar has a big family he needed a car with lots of room. The Audi has about the same headroom and legroom as the Rolls-Royce Silver Shadow.

4. Rolf is a first-class skier. He gets to where he's going because the Audi, like the Cadillac Eldorado, has front-wheel drive to give him the traction he needs to get through the snow to the snow.

5. Duke wanted a car that could handle mountain roads and get him up to his cabin comfortably. Because the Audi has independent front suspension like the Aston Martin, Duke gets peace of mind as well as peace of body.

6. Geoffrey the banker wanted a car with a plush interior. Since the Audi's interior bears such an uncanny resemblance to that of the Mercedes-Benz 280SE, Geoffrey is now a Senior Vice-President.

7. Lance knows the fuss women make over racing car drivers. He also knows the Audi has the same type of steering system as the racing Ferrari. (Ursula is now in seventh heaven.)

Committee Aimed At Harmony

A special joint committee aimed at harmony, will peruse the school budget following guidelines this year.

Made up of school committee and Finance Committee members, the committee will be examining the school budget through its development, with an eye toward going into the annual town meeting in March in agreement.

Frank Byrne, chairman of the FinCom proposed the committee to the school board Tuesday night and the educators accepted.

The aim of the committee which will be composed of two school committee members, two FinCom members and Supt. of Schools Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert, will be to create a climate of understanding of the town's largest financial expenditure.

School Committeeman Frank Hill felt the idea had merit and said he would support anything that would preclude what has happened at the past two annual town meetings. The school budget has been the subject of considerable debate the past two years.

Committeemen William L. Lane and Dr. Frank Griggs were appointed the school committee representatives to the group. Byrne explained that the FinCom members will be named as soon as the appointments to his board are made.

The FinCom is awaiting the formal action of Moderator Arthur Williams in making appointments to the committee.

Three members have had their terms expire and words awaited on the moderator's action.

Physical Ed Reminder

The Andover Physical Education Department would like to remind elementary and secondary students of the following:

Students will need sneakers, socks and towel.

Secondary students will also rent a lock from the Physical Education Department for $1.00.

Elementary students will require sneakers and are asked to wear clothing for vigorous activities on gym days.

Students planning on participating in the interscholastic program will need a physical examination. It is encouraged that the family physician complete the physical before school begins.

Dental

properly implement it and guide it.

The actual implementation of the program will be accomplished through the school administration, Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert, superintendent, informed the committee.

Dr. Halem and his group were thanked and commended by the board for their work in designing and planning the proposal.

Questions Status Of Buildings

When will Andover's newest public schools be formally accepted by the town and who is responsible for various flaws or problems in the new buildings?

That is the question School Committeeman William L. Lane would like answered.

Lane commented on the status of the West elementary school where carpeting is in "deplorable condition." He wanted to know if the town was responsible or the contractor in view of the building not having been accepted as yet.

Jack Berberian, supervisor of general services, said that in some cases the contracts are still in litigation. In other cases, the town is now responsible for making repairs.

Lane said that he felt that if conditions existed in unaccepted buildings, that the contractor should still be responsible and the town not liable for any defects. Dr. Richard A. Katz said the question of who legally owns the buildings is almost a mute point, since the town is now in there and conducting classes.

Lane insisted, however, that the matter should be looked into in an effort to save the town additional expense.

Berberian was asked to contact Town Manager J. Maynard Austin and ask for a projected date of formal acceptance of the new high school, Bancroft and West elementary schools.
